The ability to move fast is essential for your organisation to succeed

Move faster

As organisations endeavour to keep pace with changing regulations, compliance programmes tend to become disjointed and burdensome, adding significantly to the cost of compliance in both time and money.

Regulatory reform and increased enforcement activity may ultimately protect the international business community and benefit the greater environment, but they also intensify the pressure on businesses through increased workload and cost.

Regulatory change to prevent financial crime is constant, creating a challenge especially for regulated organisations and multinational companies.

There is heightened awareness of risk that may be hiding in business relationships – individuals involved in organised crime such as money laundering and terrorist financing have become increasingly sophisticated.

Association with a heightened risk entity or individual, whether intentional or not, exposes an organisation to the risk of regulatory censure and reputational damage.

Many organisations are struggling with:

- Failure to provide personnel with the tools and resources needed to attain ongoing compliance
- Inadequate dedication of appropriate resources
- Failure to track and evidence completion of required screening processes
- Failure to enforce compliance programmes due to lack of trained personnel
- Failure to establish an effective view of risk for management
- An inability to identify significant compliance risks
- Failure to establish and maintain supervisory controls

Refinitiv's® Managed Screening Service was created to address these concerns.

Corporations and financial services are tasked with the most requirements

	Corporations	Financial services
Legislative	General – Enhanced screening processes are essential. In particular, groups looking to achieve compliance with ABC laws, trade sanctions, AML/CFT and fraud regulations may find that new or amended legislation has resulted in in-house resources falling behind and lacking the required up-to-date expertise to carry out the screening and match resolution effectively. ABC – UK Bribery Act (UKBA) and Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) clients should consider screening of third parties at on-boarding, as well as non-customer screening, as industry best practice. Export Control – Screen all customers.	General – Firms are heavily regulated and face increasing regulation. They may be involved in unexpected ad hoc mergers and acquisitions (M&amp;A) activity, product divestment, etc., which places further pressure on compliance operations. If companies are already thin on resources and unable to achieve the desired level of compliance, penalties and fines may be the result, not to mention possible reputational damage. Anti-Bribery and Corruption – UK Bribery Act (UKBA) and Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) clients should consider screening of third parties at on-boarding. Know Your Customer (KYC), AML, Proceeds of Crime – Screen all customers.
Annual monitoring	Identify and resolve new and updated matches.
Permanent	Regular on-boarding of new third parties and routine re-screening of existing ones as risk status may change; politically exposed person (PEP) screening and screening of entire client database in particular for corporations.
Ad hoc	M&A activity, product divestment.
One-off and ongoing screening	Both groups have this requirement depending on their business type, risk-based approach and particular regulation.

The process

We first understand the client's risk appetite and then prioritise the data and screening process accordingly.

Key considerations

- The process can be configured based on specific client requirements, whether simple or complex
- A key consideration is the resource and time constraints clients might face
- A multi-step quality assurance model is utilised to minimise the chances of inaccuracies, reduce false negatives or missed hits and improve the quality of data output
- Client data is passed to Refinitiv via a secure portal
- All steps are configured as per the client's agreed risk policy

World-Check Risk Intelligence

Effective risk screening requires the best quality intelligence. To achieve best results, Managed Screening Service is powered by World-Check. Our research infrastructure spans the globe and provides broad cover, as well as targeting specific areas.

World-Check research produces structured, examined information that is de-duplicated and quality controlled. Analysts make connections between subjects and their business or family relationships, and uncover, criminal and political networks.

World-Check Risk Intelligence data, when combined with our screening software, increases accuracy, minimises errors and reduces false positives, offering a screening solution that is cost-effective and delivers fast, reliable results.

Enhanced due diligence background checks

Refinitiv due diligence reports are a cost-effective method of obtaining detailed background checks on any entity or individual, no matter where they are located.

Analysts are based in research centres across EMEA, Asia and the Americas and include native speakers of all key languages, minimising cost and ensuring fast access to critical public domain information.

Reports are structured and designed to be easily navigated, providing information on:

- An organisation
- Its owners
- Its operating and litigation history
- Management and key decision makers (optional)

Reports can also include an assessment of an individual's:

- Background
- Track record
- Real competencies
- Potential conflicts of interest
- Political and criminal links

Business conduct and reputation history can be analysed and a thorough search made for unseen liabilities. Business intelligence is gathered from regulators, industry observers, suppliers, competitors, distributors and customers both current and former. Every Due Diligence report includes screening for risk against World-Check Risk Intelligence data.
